

Hi Troels, and thank you for your great contribution to the audio world, highly appreciated!

I finally finished a new friend to my DTQWT's, the 8008 center, the build was pretty much straight forward, with only a couple of small hiccups of my own fault.

Decided to go for the enlarged cabinet and the longer port even though I cross over at 80hz, to support the idea of having a smooth respons atleast 1 octave above/beneath crossover, and of course the fact that it made no difference to either the price nor the amount of work.

I am not one who can write or describe sound with big words and artistic wording, so I'll keep it simple;

It is the best center I have heard, and it is by far the best (surround) dialog I have had in my house, it is crystal clear!
